Generals' Hammond hurls perfect game

By SCOTT GERMAN
News-Virginian Sports Writer

On a picture-perfect evening for baseball here at Kate Collins Field, Jamie Hammond starting pitcher for the Waynesboro Generals was just that. PERFECT. On a simply magical night the left hander from the University of Maryland mesmerized the often bewildered New Market Rebels fanning 13 , while allowing only two balls out of the infield. And almost as an afterthought the Generals with a lone run in the first inning edged the Rebels 1-0 in Valley Baseball League play.

Hammond, who had only two no decisions in his prior starts for the Generals was in total control throughout the contest. The native welcomed New Market to town by striking out two batters in the first inning and then as an explanation point whiffed two of the games final three outs.

So overpowering on the hill was Hammond he needed just 109 pitches to complete his masterpiece. Only on four occasions were new Market batters able to take the General starter to full counts.

"In most no hit games the pitcher must also have the support of a strong defense behind him. For Hammond, the Troops did just that. Having suffered through some error-prooned games to begin the season the Generals played a flawless game in the field including two late-game gems.

Brian Mohor led off the Rebel seventh with what appeared to be a perfectly placed bunt down the third baseline Generals third baseman Fric Walker pounced on the ball and threw a strike to first just inches ahead of Clark for the out. An inning later, with the pressure mounting and the Generals clinging to a 1-0 lead Waynesboro second baseman Willie Bosque ranged far to his left to snag Darly Clark's grounder to preserve the perfect game bid.

There would be no such heroics needed by Waynesboro in the the ninth as Hammond calmly strode to the hill. New Market punch-hitter John Tyler struck out on four pitches, Tom Perrun was out number two on a pop fly to shallow right, while the second pitch-hitter of the inning Nick Perlozzo fanned to end the game and complete Hammond's wonderful evening.

After the game Hammond's when finished signing autographs said early in the game he felt as though he was in a groove. " During the first few innings I knew I had control of a li four of my pitches, " noted Hammond. " That meant I was able to hit my spots while working around the plate. Which is important because then as a pitcher you can make hitters hit your pitch, " added the general starter.

Hammond said he began to notice the typical baseball superstitions concerning no hit bids sittarct taking place around the earth inning.

" I saw everyone sitting in the same spot in the dugout every inning, and the guys offered the same remarks to me when I came off the field. I knew what I had going, " remarked Hammond.

What topped off the night for the lefthander was the fact that his parents were in attendance for the first time this season.

While his mother, Trudy Hammond was all smiles, his father James was concerned about finding ice to put on his sons shoulder.

Waynesboro manager Ryan Morris said Hammond just was in a special groove all night. "Jamie started the game throwing a lot of strikes, he was consistently getting his curve ball over and that was what really mead him tough, " commented Morris.

New Market starting pitcher Stephen Pew also had an impressive night as he allowed just five hits. The only run of the contest was scored by the generals Brian Rogers with the aid by two first Inning Rebel errors.

The Generals, now 6-5 on the season face Staunton this evening at John Moxie memorial Stadium.

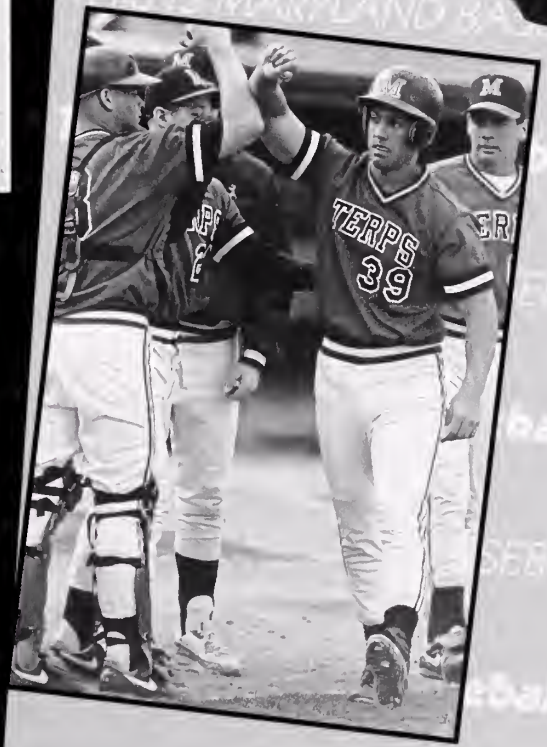
Junior lefthander Jamie Hammond of the University of Maryland shows the form he used to pitch a perfect game Friday night as Waynesboro blanked New Market 1-0 at Kate Collins Field in Valley League action.

Current Terp pitcher Jamie Hammond received national attention after pitching a perfect game for the Waynesboro Generals in a summer league game on June 18, 1999.

Tom Curtiss, the ace of the Terps 1999 pitching staff, is now playing in the Atlanta Braves organization.

Former Terp Eric Milton, who now plays for the Minnesota Twins, pitched a no-hitter on Sept. 11, 1999 against the Anaheim Angels.

The 1971 Maryland squad is one of three Terp squads to have captured the ACC title and advance to the NCAA Tournament.



Former Terp Derek Hacopian won the ACC triple crown in 1992 and was a consensus All-America selection.

2000 Season Outlook

Judging by the results of the last five months, the 2000 baseball season has the potential to be one of Maryland's best in recent memory.

Last spring, the Terps advanced to the third round of the ACC Tournament for the first time since 1988. On June 19, senior lefthander Jamie Hammond, who is the ace of this year's staff, pitched a perfect game for the Waynesboro Generals of the Shenandoah Valley Summer League. This past fall, Collegiate Baseball newspaper cited the Terps for having a top recruiting class for the current season.

Heading into the current season, the Terps return the bulk of last year's squad that made the run at the ACC Tournament and have added what head coach Tom Bradley feels is his best recruiting class.

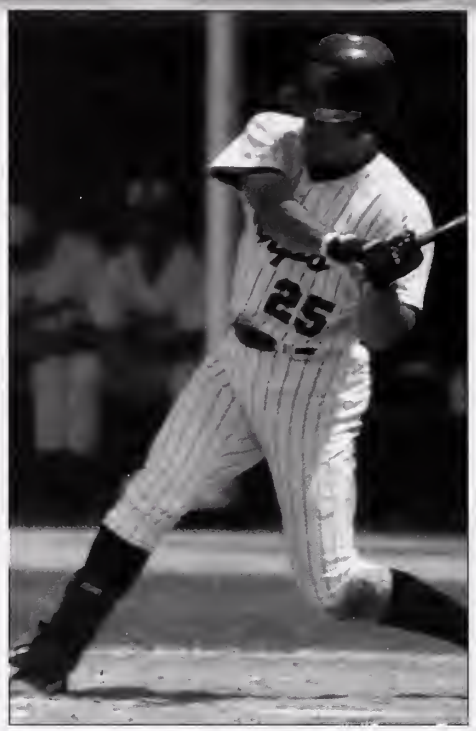
"We are real excited about our club this year," said Bradley. "After the run we had at the end of last season, this could be our year. We have eight seniors and have brought in a great group of pitchers that should help us improve even more."

Leading the way for the pitching staff is Hammond, who went 5-4 with a 5.56 ERA last season. He led the Terps to a 6-3 upset win over North Carolina in the ACC Tournament before tossing his perfect game this summer. He ended the summer by getting called up to the prestigious Cape Cod League.

"We really think Jamie is capable of having an outstanding year," said Bradley. "He came on strong at the end of last season and had a great summer of pitching. He has improved a lot."

The other top returning starter from last season is senior lefthander Joe Hart. Sophomore Todd Ainsworth, who had an outstanding fall camp, could also be in line for a starting slot. In the bullpen, the top veterans are senior Ryan Fleetwood and junior Jared Vogt.

Matt Swope



Chuck Easter

The highlight of the Terps' incoming group of players this season is their six pitchers. Included in this group are freshmen Brad Lyons, Mike Dallmeyer, Jared Stuart and Matt Bassinger and juniors Mark Martin and Sean Lomas.

"All of our new pitchers have good arms," said Bradley. "They all throw 86 (mph) or above. Even though they are mostly freshmen, they have a lot of ability. You can't teach guys how to throw hard."

At the plate, the Terps will be anchored by first baseman/ designated hitter Craig Munroe, who led the 1999 squad in hitting with a .336 average, 16 home runs and 63 RBI. He smacked a pair of home runs in last season's ACC Tournament. In June, Munroe was picked by the Pittsburgh Pirates in the 11th round of the major league draft, but he chose to return for his senior season.

"Anytime someone comes back to school after getting drafted, it's like getting an extra player," said Bradley. "Craig really improved last season against ACC pitching and has become a feared hitter in this league. We are glad he is back and we look for him to have an even better year coming up."

Junior first baseman Chuck Easter, senior second baseman Jason Mohap and sophomore catcher Kevin McDonald are the top returning infielders. Last year, Easter hit .314 in his first season as a full-time starter. Mohap hit eight home runs in 1998 and had an outstanding fall season. McDonald had an impressive freshman season defensively and came on strong offensively at the end of last year. With the addition of junior Steve Oursler, who transferred from St Mary's (Md.), and junior shortstop Sean Lomas, who transferred from Marist, Maryland heads into the 2000 season with an experienced infield.

In the outfield, sophomore Matt Swope, who hit .304 as a freshman, junior Larry Long, who stole 33 bases two years ago and has 54 career steals, and senior Frank Valois are the top three returnees. Junior Brian Patenaude, who hit .304 last season, moves from third base to left field. Sophomore Tony Jackson and redshirt freshman Daryl Whitmer, both of whom play football for the Terps in the fall, and freshman Dan DiCorcia round out the outfield.

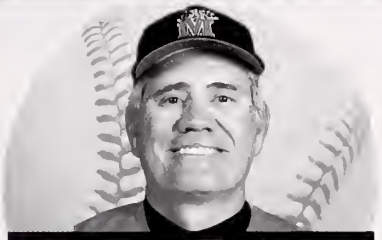
It all adds up to what could be a memorable season for the Maryland baseball program.

"The talent level is as good as it has been here, but I also think the chemistry and camaraderie are great," said Bradley. "The players can't wait to get going this season."

Joe Hart

Head Coach Tom Bradley



24 TOM BRADLEY

Head Coach
10th year at Maryland • 22nd Overall Maryland'72

Tom Bradley is in his 10th year at the helm of the Maryland baseball program and in his 22nd season as a head coach on the NCAA Division I level. Heading into the 1999 season, he has the second-longest tenure at an ACC school among the nine current head coaches in the conference.

A 1972 graduate of Maryland, Bradley returned to his alma mater in 1991 and led the Terps to a school-record 29 wins in his first year as the Terps' head coach. Prior to arriving at Maryland, he was the head coach at Jacksonville University for 12 seasons. Under Bradley's leadership, the Dolphins amassed a record of 431-291-1 (.597), won the 1989 Sun Belt Conference championship and advanced to the 1989 NCAA Tournament. Heading into the 1999 season, he has a career record of 650-564-6 (.535).

Through his first 22 seasons as a NCAA Division I head coach, Bradley has coached more than 70 players, including 23 at Maryland, who have continued their baseball careers in the professional ranks. Last year alone, eight former Terps played professional baseball.

Bradley was a two-year letterwinner on the Maryland baseball team from 1967-68. In his final season (1968), he was a third-team All-America selection and went on to be drafted in the fifth round by the California Angels. He was also named first-team All-ACC both seasons. More than three decades later, Bradley still holds the best ERA in ACC history (1.34) and ranks 12th all-time with 10.70 strikeouts per nine innings. In 1968, Bradley was part of a pitching staff that led the nation with a 0.95 ERA.

For seven years after playing at Maryland, Bradley competed in the major leagues. From 1969-70, he played for the Angels and appeared in 17 games. Following the 1970 season, he was traded to the Chicago White Sox. Over the next two seasons, Bradley started 79 games for the White Sox and won 15 games each season. After the 1972 season, he was traded to San Francisco and played for the Giants the next three seasons. He won 23 games over that three-year stretch and was the starting pitcher on opening day 1974 at Candlestick Park. Bradley played in the Giants' organization in 1976 and the Oakland A's organization in 1977. Following the 1977 season, he announced his retirement, ending his career with 55 major league victories, 691 strikeouts and a 3.72 ERA.

One year after retiring from professional baseball, Bradley became the pitching coach at St. Mary's College (Calif.). The following year (1979), he was named the head coach at Jacksonville University. The Dolphins were nationally ranked six times during Bradley's tenure, including a season-ending No. 25 ranking in the Baseball America and Collegiate Baseball polls in 1990. Six years after leaving the Dolphins for Maryland, Bradley was inducted into the Jacksonville University Athletic Hall of Fame.

During his undergraduate career at Maryland, Bradley was recognized for his academic accomplishments in addition to his outstanding athletic career. In 1968, he was named Maryland's Scholar-Athlete of the Year. Bradley returned to school in 1972 and graduated cum laude with a major in Latin and a minor in Greek. He went on to earn his master's degree in athletic teaching at Jacksonville in 1980 and became a tenured professor by the time he came to Maryland.

Bradley's wife, Kathy, is a fourth grade teacher at Washington Episcopal School in Bethesda, Md. Their son Andy is a senior at Gonzaga College High School in Washington, D.C., and their daughter Alix is a junior at the University of South Carolina.

Coaching Staff

15 Kelly Kulina

Associate Head Coach
10th year at Maryland
Jacksonville '84

Kelly Kulina is in his 10th season at Maryland and his 11th season assisting head coach Tom Bradley. He is the Terps' hitting and base running instructor, recruiting coordinator and coaches third base on game days. In addition to his role with the Maryland baseball program, he has conducted his own summer baseball camp for the past decade and winter baseball camp the past three years.

Since 1991, Kulina has recruited 17 players who have gone on to be selected in the major league draft, including Eric Milton, who was the New York Yankees' first-round pick in 1996. This past year, he recruited a class that was cited by Collegiate Baseball newspapers as being a top recruiting classes in the nation.

Kulina played for Bradley from 1982-83 at Jacksonville, where he was a standout outfielder. During his two years at Jacksonville, the Dolphins went 77-39 and were ranked as high as No. 17 in the nation. In his final season, Kulina was a Sun Belt Conference all-tournament selection after hitting .779 in the conference tournament.

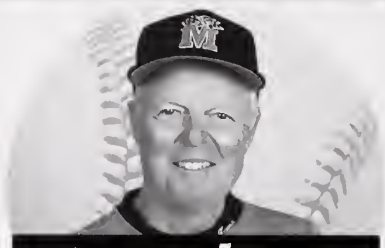
Prior to playing for Jacksonville, Kulina played for two seasons at South Georgia College. He earned All-South Regional honors in 1981 and led the team in hitting in 1980 with a .398 batting average.

Kulina began his coaching career at Wayne County High School in 1987. He led the team to a 46-9 record over the next two years, including a 24-3 mark in 1988. In 1988, Kulina's team was ranked No. 17 in the nation in Collegiate Baseball's and USA Today's high school polls.

In 1989, Kulina became an assistant coach at Palm Beach Community College and the following season, he became the assistant head coach at Jacksonville under Tom Bradley. While at Jacksonville, Kulina coached defense, hitting and was in charge of the Dolphins' recruiting efforts.

Following his playing career at Jacksonville, Kulina finished up his bachelor's degree in physical education from the university in 1984. He then went on to earn his master's degree in sports science from the U.S. Sports Academy in 1989.

Kulina and his wife Lee Ann have a son, Kelly (12), a daughter Lavin (7) and a son Josh (1).



17 Jim Flack

Assistant Coach
18th year at Maryland
Albion '59

Jim Flack is in his 18th season as an assistant coach at Maryland and his 10th season on head coach Tom Bradley's staff. He works with the team's catchers and is the first base coach on game days. In addition to his coaching duties, Flack teaches in the Department of History at Maryland.

Flack was a four-year letterwinner at Albion College in Michigan from 1956-59. He earned his bachelor's degree in history (with a minor in education and physical education) from Albion in 1959 and went on to become an assistant baseball coach at Kimball High School in Royal Oak, Mich., from 1960-62. Between 1958 and 1962, he coached the Birmingham, Mich., American Legion team.

In 1963, Flack earned his master's degree from Wayne State. Five years later, he earned his doctorate degree, also from Wayne State. One year before earning his Ph. D., Flack arrived at the University of Maryland as an instructor in the history department. Thirty-three years later, he is an associate professor at Maryland, chairs the university's historic preservation committee and serves on the athletic council.

In addition to his work with the Terrapin baseball program, Flack was also the head coach for the Maryland Orioles, an international baseball development team, in 1990. Under his leadership, the Orioles traveled to Poland and Czechoslovakia to compete against international teams.

Flack and his wife Jan have three grown children; Jim, Hilary and Jake (who earned his bachelor's degree from Maryland in 1994).

6 Brent Flynn

Assistant Coach
2nd year at Maryland
Maryland '89

Brent Flynn is in his second season as an assistant coach with the Maryland baseball team. He serves as the Terps' bench coach on game days.

From 1985-88, Flynn was a four-year letterwinner on the Maryland baseball team. He started in the outfield and was named to the ACC Honor Roll twice. In 1989, Flynn completed his bachelor's degree in history at the university.

Following graduation, Flynn coached the Maryland women's club softball team from 1990-93, before it became a varsity sport. He also completed his master's degree in recreation administration in 1992 from the university. Currently, he works at the University of Maryland Campus Recreation Center.

Flynn and his wife Laura have a three-year old daughter, Casey.

University of MARYLAND

Leading the Way into the 21st Century

- A Carnegie Research-I University
- Member, Association of American Universities
- Flagship of the University System of Maryland
- Division I NCAA Athletics

"Strive for clarity, but accept and understand ambiguity."

That phrase captures one way in which an educated person approaches the world and its challenges. Students who graduate from the University of Maryland have been exposed to the tools that allow them to put that perspective to work. Imparting such a perspective may be an ambitious project for undergraduate education, but to aim for anything less would be unworthy of a great university's goals for its students. Ten years ago, Promises to Keep, a plan for undergraduate education at Maryland, articulated those goals so eloquently we repeat them here.

Undergraduate education at Maryland "aims to provide students with a sense of identity and purpose, a concern for others, a sense of responsibility for the quality of life around them, a continuing eagerness for knowledge and understanding, and a foundation for a lifetime of personal enrichment.

As we learn with and from one another, we try to "develop human values," "celebrate tolerance and fairness," "contribute to the social conscience," "monitor and assess private and collective assumptions," and "recognize the glory, tragedy and humor of the human condition." Your years at the University of Maryland can provide you with all the tools you need to accomplish these goals. Students here are "educated to be able to read with perception and pleasure, write and speak with clarity and verve, handle numbers and computation proficiently, reason mathematically, generate clear questions and find probable arguments, reach substantiated conclusions, and accept ambiguity."

And we also hope you enjoy the journey.

The Campus

The University of Maryland, College Park, is the most comprehensive institution of higher education, research and service in the state. The university offers 100 undergraduate majors, 88 master's programs and 69 doctoral programs in 13 colleges and schools.

The university is one of only 30 public research universities that are members of the prestigious 58-member Association of American Universities. It is classified as a Research-I university by the Carnegie Foundation by virtue of the range of its baccalaureate programs, the amount of federal support received and the number of doctoral degrees awarded each year, sharing that honor with the top research universities in the country.

Among the public universities in the Association of American Universities, Maryland ranks among the top in percentage of African-American undergraduate students. In addition, the university has the largest number of African-Americans and other minority members among its peers.

University of Maryland

Flagship Status

In 1988, the University of Maryland, College Park, was designated as the flagship institution for the University System of Maryland. As well as pursuing a serious research mission and continuing its high level of service to the state, the university rededicated itself to providing the highest quality graduate and undergraduate education. Increased undergraduate opportunities for research and individual study; the development of the College Park Scholars Program and the expansion of the University Honors Program; the genesis of Honors Humanities and Gemstone; the creation of CORE, the general education program; and the establishment of the Center for Teaching Excellence all affirmed the legislature's designation of flagship.

Libraries

Seven libraries make up the University of Maryland library system: McKeldin (main) Library, Architecture Library, Art Library, Engineering and Physical Sciences Library, Hornbake Library, Performing Arts Library, White Memorial (Chemistry) Library.

These libraries constitute the largest university research library institution in the Washington metropolitan area, providing vital resources to researchers, visiting scholars, and businesses throughout the region. The libraries' holdings include more than 2.5 million volumes, 24,000 subscriptions to periodicals and nearly 5 million items available in microfilm format.

Research

Opportunities for conducting research abound at the University of Maryland, and in the surrounding area, both for faculty to advance their own expertise and bring their insights into the classroom, and for students to begin their exploration of their special interests with practical experience. On campus, special facilities and a number of organized research centers, bureaus, and institutes promote the acquisition and analysis of new knowledge in the arts, sciences and applied fields.

The university's enviable location — just nine miles from downtown Washington, D.C., and approximately 30 miles from both Baltimore and Annapolis — enhances the research of its faculty and students by providing access to some of the finest libraries and research centers in the country.

Service

Programs of public service are central to the overall mission of the university. The philosophy is reflected in the wide array of programs and initiatives that benefit the state's business, agriculture and education communities.

With more than 90 high technology firms in the three-county area of Montgomery, Prince George's and Frederick counties, the university has found abundant opportunity to extend its business and technology outreach programs to the region. Many of these programs are part of the Engineering Research Center, which operates the Technology Advancement Program and the Maryland Industrial Partnerships, programs designed to provide Maryland entrepreneurs and small businesses with research facilities, technical assistance, administrative support, and access to technology that will advance their economic base.

The Institute for Systems Research has formed partnerships with major corporations, including Lockheed Martin, Westinghouse, BF Goodrich, Hughes Aircraft and Dupont to apply advanced systems research to solving industry problems in the fields of communications, manufacturing, controls and robotics.

A Wired World

Students at the University of Maryland are part of an academic community that enjoys free access to networked computer resources and facilities that are among the best in the country. Free computer accounts enable users to store class work on a networked server, download classroom support materials and other electronic information from campus networked resources.

President C.D. Mote, Jr.

C.D. (Dan) Mote Jr. took office as president in September 1998 with a clear vision for taking the University of Maryland down the home stretch to its destiny as one of America's great research universities.

Mote came to Maryland from the University of California at Berkeley, where he had earned all of his degrees, and where he had served in faculty and administration more than 30 years. He had most recently been vice chancellor for university relations.

In Maryland, he found a university already well on its way to achieving the greatness envisioned when the General Assembly declared it the flagship institution of the University System of Maryland. Mote immediately took a leadership role on the Governor's Task Force on Governance, Coordination and Funding of the University System of Maryland to gain greater autonomy and flexibility for the university to pursue its goals. He followed that by working closely with state leaders to boost university funding for new programs, scholarships and faculty, gaining a 10 percent appropriations increase in his first year.

When the legislature had finished its work for the year, Mote spelled out in his inauguration address his vision of Maryland as a great research university, where teaching and research are "inseparable." In this plan, the faculty creates a culture of excellence that permeates the university, student success is the center of all activity, and the extended Maryland family of alumni and friends grows rich in pride and tradition.

High achievement has been Dan Mote's life, from his student days at the University of California through his years as an outstanding teacher and world-renowned researcher and his leadership of a highly successful capital campaign at Berkeley. He arrived in College Park determined to continue the same level of achievement in his new post.

After earning his doctorate in engineering mechanics from Berkeley in 1963, Mote spent a year as a research fellow at the University of Birmingham in England, then three years as assistant professor of mechanical engineering at the Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh before returning to Berkeley in 1967.

There he stayed for more than 30 years before coming to Maryland. He was promoted to professor in 1973.

Mote and his wife Patsy live in the President's Residence on the College Park campus. They have two grown children and four grandchildren.

Maryland TERRAPINS

Among The Nation's Best

This is Maryland Athletics

At the University of Maryland, winning is not taken lightly. Like the rich history of all its sports programs, championships are a tradition.

Since the 1950s, Maryland has established itself as one of the most successful athletic programs in the nation. This type of success is no accident; it has been built year-by-year on the achievements of outstanding young men and women who were given the opportunity to excel both on and off the field of play. The victories, the championships and the national acclaim are all ingredients of the Maryland athletic program. Student-athletes who attend Maryland are part of a program and a university which thrives on tradition and excellence.

Academic Excellence

The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletic program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body. Since 1983, 88 percent of freshmen scholarship athletes who completed their eligibility at the University of Maryland earned their degrees.

Goals

The great thing about being a Terrapin is the commitment to hard work and dedication. At the University of Maryland, the athletic department is dedicated to supporting a well-balanced Division I program. Athletic director Deborah A. Yow and her dedicated coaches, administrators and staff have re-engineered the department into a responsive and financially sound model — with a clear vision and a determined drive toward national prominence.

Athletic Success

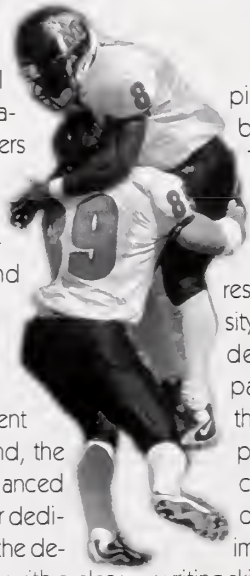
National championships, conference championships, national rankings and postseason play are all a part of the University of Maryland experience. The University of Maryland has established itself as one of the nation's elite athletic programs. The Terrapins have won 13 national championships, including a record five consecutive by the women's lacrosse team. The Terrapins had plenty of reason to celebrate when it came to intercollegiate athletics in 1998-99, as they posted their second consecutive Top 25 finish in the national Sears Directors' Cup all-sports ranking. Its 38-position jump from the No. 57 spot in 1994-95 to the No. 19 spot in 1997-98 was the greatest in that time by a school not previously ranked in the top 25.

Competition

Wearing the Maryland uniform means playing in front of some of the loudest and most supportive fans in the nation. It means playing against the best teams in the country, in the most prestigious conference in the country, the ACC. It means wearing the school colors with pride. It means doing your best in athletics and academics. It is a unique and special feeling being a Terrapin.

Athletes in the Community

From the media spotlight to the community spotlight, Terrapin student-athletes strengthen the ties of the local community by serving as role models. Community service is a key part of the Terrapins' agenda. Student-athletes support many community programs which help to enrich the lives of Maryland youth while teaching the importance of studying hard and saying "no" to drugs and alcohol. Representatives from the University of Maryland athletic department speak to participants and use their image and the appeal of sports to encourage Maryland children to stay in school, improve their reading and writing skills, and to receive their high school diplomas.



Athletic Director Deborah A. Yow

Yow to assume presidency of NACDA in July 2000

Dr. Deborah A. Yow has led Terrapin athletics to balanced budgets, high levels of productivity and achievement and a vigorous commitment to excellence throughout its operations. She is in her sixth year as Maryland's director of athletics.

Since taking over at Maryland in 1994, she and her staff have:

- Transformed Terrapin athletics into a responsive, goal-oriented organization.

- Balanced all five of the more than $25 million annual budgets (the first balanced budgets for the Terrapins in 10 years).
- Improved graduation rates for student-athletes, above that of the general student population, in three of those five years.
- Led the Terrapins to a national all-sports ranking in the upper 10 percent of all NCAA Division I schools.
- Reorganized and upgraded marketing and fund-raising efforts on behalf of Terrapin athletics. As a result, private gifts to athletics have increased 85% and corporate sponsorship revenues have increased by 270% during her tenure at Maryland.
- Implemented a strategic management model.
- Paid off $7 million in operating debt accrued before her arrival in 1994.
- Developed a comprehensive Internet strategy with management, marketing and fundraising applications.
- Significantly improved customer service in every area.

Regarding the many achievements of Terrapin athletics over the past five years, Debbie Yow says, "We are pleased, but we are not satisfied ... our vision is to be one of the top 10 programs in the nation consistently ... we see no reason to settle for less."

Yow is known for her goal-oriented and proactive management style. She consistently inspires and challenges those around her to "raise our sights and sharpen our tools ... to work hard and work smart ... to recognize that our only limitations are those that we place upon ourselves." As a manager and leader, she clearly models these principles.

Dr. Yow is a member of the NCAA Management Council and the NCAA Division I Budget Committee. In addition, she will become president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics in July 2000, and was recently singled out by Street & Smith Sports Business Journal as one of the leading athletic administrators in the U.S.

A former basketball coach, she began her coaching career at the high school level in North Carolina before taking over as head women's coach at the University of Kentucky in 1976. She also achieved an outstanding coaching record as head coach at the University of Florida. She later moved into athletic administration at the University of Florida and the University of North Carolina-Greensboro, followed by a highly successful tenure as A.D. at Saint Louis University.

She has authored numerous articles and books on athletics, management, and human behavior, and is a respected leader in intercollegiate athletics in the United States.

Summing up the entire Terrapin athletic program, Yow recently observed, "We have the finest student-athletes, coaches, support staff and administrative team in America. It is because of their courage, hard work and cooperative spirit that we now have a strong, viable athletic program. I am immensely proud of each of them. I am equally proud of our Terrapin fans who buy tickets and our Terrapin Club members who faithfully support the Maryland athletic program with their donations for scholarships, and the Maryland Educational Foundation and M Club members who serve and give liberally. We have a great Terrapin family. That's the foundation for all of our successes ... and the basis for our bright future."

Sears Directors' Cup

Since Deborah A. Yow took over the Maryland athletic department reins in 1994-95, here is a look at how the Terps have progressed in the Sears Directors' Cup, the national all-sports ranking measuring athletic competitiveness.

Academic Support

The University of Maryland considers intercollegiate athletics an integral part of the collegiate experience. Its existence provides an opportunity for students, faculty, alumni and students to share in the life of intercollegiate athletics.

The Department of Intercollegiate Athletics strives to achieve the same standards of excellence in its athletics program as exist within the university's teaching, research and public service programs. The department embraces the concept that the student-athlete is first and foremost a student, possessing academic abilities, personal interests and ambitions comparable to those of the other members of the student body.

The mission of the Academic Support and Career Development Unit, headed by assistant athletic director Demetrius Marlowe, is to provide quality developmental programs and need-based services that enhance the academic progress, facilitate the career development, and encourage the psychosocial growth of every student-athlete.

MAPS Directory

This directory, the Maryland Athletes Placement Source, is produced annually by the Department of Intercollegiate Athletics. It is intended to assist graduating Terrapin student-athletes as they begin their professional careers.

Distributed to more than 1,000 corporations and businesses around the region, prospective employers are introduced to our graduating student-athletes with resumé information relative to academic, career and personal achievements.

Career Information Fairs

Career Awareness in Academic Support is expanding to include a variety of programs for student-athletes throughout the semester. Career awareness is an ongoing process and includes assistance with resume writing and interview skills. The end of the semester brings a career awareness fair which hosts a number of professionals with whom student-athletes can learn about career interests and planning. Unlike typical "job fairs," the purpose of this program is to allow student-athletes to explore multiple career opportunities by speaking directly to individuals in their chosen area of interest.

Team Maryland

Team Maryland is a class taught in conjunction with the campus' James McGregor Burns Academy of Leadership in which student-athletes are exposed to leadership and public speaking skills and techniques. The program consists of a group of volunteer student-athletes who learn about the challenges for children in the community by speaking to different elementary schools about drug abuse and the importance of education. In addition to school visits, Team Maryland has hosted visits from local schools to our campus.

Strength & Conditioning

Collegiate baseball has evolved to the point where total physical preparation is necessary to successfully compete on the Division I level. It has become extremely important to strength and conditioning coach Corliss White that all of the Terrapin athletes are prepared through training to maximize their athletic development in terms of strength and conditioning. The high level of dedication by the members of the baseball team have brought about spectacular achievements in the weight room and in competition.

The objective of the strength and conditioning program for baseball is based on the enhancement of performance as well as the prevention of injuries. White makes every attempt to accommodate the different training needs of each individual athlete.

The preparation of a student-athlete to compete in baseball goes beyond strength and power training in the weight room. Speed improvement, flexibility, plyometrics, nutrition, agility and conditioning are also important ingredients in the preparation of the baseball team here at Maryland. The strength and conditioning staff puts a great emphasis on improving the quickness of the Terps through increased mechanical efficiency and the improvement of acceleration of maximum velocity.
